OBJECTIVE OF THE FOUNDATION

The objective of the foundation is to contribute to safeguarding nature and the environment, human rights, working conditions and terms of employment in developing countries in the manufacture of products that are worn or used for work and leisure, in particular clothing, textiles, footwear and home textiles, and to ensuring that such products have, at a minimum, been manufactured under conditions that are legal and responsible with regard to human rights and the environment.

The foundation seeks to achieve this objective by:

a) developing methods and tools (including the Fair Price portal) that support relevant parties in agreeing on commercial terms that help make it possible to respect human rights and environmental standards in developing countries;

b) promoting the use by relevant parties of the methods and tools referred to under (a);

c) providing information and raising awareness of, and support for action on, working conditions and environmental sustainability in supply chains in developing countries;

d) increasing knowledge and understanding of these issues through, among other things, conducting and commissioning research and exchanging information;

e) supporting, educating and advising companies on their purchasing and/or production policies with regard to working conditions and environmental sustainability in these supply chains;

f) supporting relevant parties, including workers, trade unions and other organisations in developing countries, through training and education;

g) promoting coordination with other relevant initiatives.

The Foundation was founded on May 29th, 2026. No income has been received yet, pending ANBI-status. Current activities are all preparatory, mostly focused on the launch of the new Fair Price tool in the beginning of 2027.
